Football Series Hard and Cleanly
Fought and Best Team Won—
Doughboys Show Mettle

Within the history of the A.E.F. is written, some will perceive more than passing mention in the chapter dealing with the activities of the Americans following the signing of the armistice. Probably no other single characteristic of the Yanks will prove so far reaching in its effect upon European minds as their love of athletics.

From the bleak November days when the soldiers first turned their attention to football to Memorial Day, when the great 100-kilometer road race of the Knights of Columbus was run off, the Army athletic program provided sensation and amusement for the entire A.E.F. and proved very valuable as a muscle builder.

The football championship series was probably the best conducted sport on the Army list. The games attracted thousands, and every man in the various units was seen pulling for his team. The contests were hard and cleanly fought, and the best team won without the question of a doubt.

Baseball Series Just Starting

Baseball, which is second only to football in popularity, scored its greatest triumphs in the Army of Occupation and at the base ports, where the men were permanently stationed and had the time to practice and build up good clubs. As THE STARS AND STRIPES leaves the field, the series for the championship of the A.E.F. is just starting, and from every indication it will prove as great a success as the football series.

One of the most commendable things about the Army athletic program was that in practically all of the sports the doughboy had an equal chance with the commissioned personnel and proved his athletic prowess. It was a doughboy, Sgt. William Rautenbush, who won the A.E.F. golf title, and, except in tennis and rowing, the men in the ranks more than held their own.

While boxing proved very popular, and the tournament was attended with great success, wrestling did not make much of a hit with the soldiers, and in the finals, whenever an entire evening was devoted to that contest, the audience was small, and most of it before the show was over. Boxing, on the other hand, drew tremendous crowds, and in the finals the Cirque de Paris, in Paris, was jammed with fight fans long before the show started. Interest reached fever heat when Leo Patterson, colored, and Bushy Graham met for the lightweight championship, and while the decision was in the balance, the scrapping about was so close the crowd was divided in its opinion as to which of the fighters was the other's master.

Welfare Organizations Help

In its sport program the Army has been ably assisted by the M.C.A. and the Y.M.C.A. of Columbus. Recently the Jewish Welfare Board and the Red Cross have taken a hand in fostering athletics, but the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. have received much attention to sport since hostilities terminated.

The Y.M.C.A. leased the Cirque de Paris, in Paris, for the A.E.F. boxing tournament, and is paying for the erection of Pershing Stadium at Joinville-le-Pont for the inter-Allied games, which some months ago were planned as the grand climax to A.E.F. sport.

All of the A.E.F. champions who cared to stay over will be seen in these games against the best athletes of the Allied nations. While America looks like an almost certain winner in the track and field events, the U.S. representatives will have to hustle in other sports to win.

MacLean's Good Work

He has provided 64 boxing shows in 119 days—more than a show every other day, not excepting Sundays, and on many occasions shows have been held in two places at the same time. MacLean's boxing promoter has been especially good in the Army of Occupation, and is paying for the erection of Pershing Stadium at Joinville-le-Pont for the inter-Allied games, which some months ago were planned as the grand climax to A.E.F. sport.

A.E.F. TRAP SHOOT

AT LE MANS JUNE 18

Owing to the large number of men interested in trap shooting, a trap shooting tournament, open to officers and men, has been authorized for the A.E.F. It will be held at the Army of Occupation, at the Belgian Camp, Le Mans, beginning June 18.

Owing to the lack of adequate equipment, it has been found impossible to hold preliminary try-outs to select competitors. Division commanders and commanders of sections of the S.O.S. are authorized to select from their commands, and to send to this competition, not to exceed 20 men each, to arrive not later than June 15, 1919. Upon arrival the men should report to Col. Alexander J. Macmah, G.S., officer in charge of rifle competitions.

3RD ARMY WINS A.E.F. MEET

Hanley Proves Aquatic Star by Capturing Six of Twenty-four Points Registered by A. of O.

A.E.F. aquatic stars, augmented by five of America's best swimmers who are on their way to France, will train at the Neuweid tank for the inter-Allied competition, which starts June 26. America's squad will consist of 50 men.

The winners of the A.E.F. swimming event held in the Lake St. James, Bois de Boulogne, Paris, last week, will sport the United States shield on their jerseys in the inter-Allied events.

Chief among the overseas force swimmers is J. F. B. Hanley, of the Third Army, who, by winning six points, paved the way for a Third Army victory. The Army of Occupation team won the A.E.F. championship meet with 24 points. The Intermediate Section, S.O.S., was second with eight points, and the Paris District third with seven. Base Section, S.O.S. and American Embarkation Center had one point each.

Fifteen thousand spectators witnessed the three days' competition. Robert Lansing, Secretary of State, and John W. Davis, American Ambassador to Great Britain, were interested spectators at the finals on Saturday.

French Win at Water Polo

That America will have to show advanced speed in the inter-Allied water polo games was exemplified during the swimming meet when the French water poloists from the Libellule Club walked away from the American team, 6 to 0. The game was played, however, under French rules. In another game with the Sporting Club Universitaire de France, the American contingent tied, each side scoring a goal.

Because of the large number of swimming enthusiasts in Paris, plans have been made to erect stands upon the shores of Lake St. James for the inter-Allied events, which will continue for three days.

At least eight nations will enter men in the big water games, and from the status of the foreign entries the United States will have to bet close to the records for the various distances to win. Serbia and Roumania have entered men with reputations. Besides Hanley, other A.E.F. water poloists who are likely to show the natives some real live going are R. W. Bennett, Third Army member, and a high point winner in the A.E.F. competitions; H. F. Gardner, Intermediate, S.O.S.; and R. C. Lang, Third Army.
